PANIC FOLLOWS CHINA, RED BATTLE

RESIDENTS FLEE SCENE OF FIGHT

MUKDEN, Sept. 10.—(UP)—The two most active centers of fighting between Chinese and Russian troops on the Manchurian border—Pogranichnaya and Manchul—continued under fire last night and today as the renewal of frontier warfare gathered momentum.

Chinese sources estimated their casualties in a five hour clash Monday at more than 100. They said 1500 Soviet soldiers participated in one encounter, using 150 pieces of artillery.

Three Soviet airplanes were reported to have flown this morning over Pogranichnaya, scene of fighting and bombing Sunday, and dropped more bombs. Officials at the Mulline station colliery, less than 250 miles from Harbin, reported that Russian planes flew over there last night, apparently reconnoitering.

3 Hour Barrage

The officials reported that they could hear cannonading on the border line over a period of three hours.

The situation at Pogranichnaya remained desperate, according to meagre telephone messages received at Harbin. Brigades were taking advantage of the confusion and destruction of buildings by bombs to loot the city. About 60 Russians and Chinese were wounded by bombs dropped at Pogranichnaya. Japanese residents requested eight freight cars for transportation to Harbin.

At Manchul the firing died down today, but Chinese troops remained in the trenches despite freezing cold. The residents were (Continued on Page 8)

During the month of August property of the value of $3185 was reported to the police department as having been stolen. Of the above amount, Chief of Police Dan Cox in his monthly report to the City council last night reported that $2856 worth had been recovered.

August Fire Loss Only $100

The fire loss in Richmond for August was $100, and of this amount half was on buildings and half on contents. This information was contained in the report of Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, filed with the city council last night.

Five Rescued From Mountain

McCLOUD, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Five persons who wandered through the rugged forests of Mt. Shasta for a day and a night before they were found by a party of 50 rescuers, had completely recovered from their experiences tonight. The missing party was returned to the home of its leader, L. E. Bedell, here.

Many Visitors At City Natatorium

Business was good at the city bathhouse last month, according to the report of City Manager J. A. McVittie, filed with the city council last night.

The receipts for the month totaled $6279.86 and the admissions numbered 16,253.

STUNT FLYING OVER CITY TO BE HALTED BY NEW RULING

The flying of airplanes low over the city, stunt flying, such as looping the loop, and scaring the residents, will be stopped in the near future.

City Attorney T. M. Carlson informed the city council that the courts had decided municipalities had the power to regulate air traffic, and many of the cities of the state already had such ordinances.

The matter was brought to the attention of the council by councilman Mattie Chandler, who stated that many complaints had been made to her.

The city attorney was then instructed to prepare an ordinance covering the matter, and present it next Monday night.

AUTO DEALERS GET LICENSES

On the recommendation of City Attorney T. M. Carlson, the city council last night granted auto dealers' licenses to all dealers in the city with the exception of George Martin, and this was laid over for one week.

Carlson stated there was some question as to whether the Martin application was in proper form, and he desired additional time to look into it.

Elks Planning Baseball Dance

Plans for a dance to be held in the near future were arranged by the members of the baseball committee of the Richmond lodge of Elks last night. The dance will be for the benefit of the ball team, and will be open to Elks and their friends. George Shaw is chairman.

Balloting on candidates will be held by the lodge next Tuesday night, with initiation to be held on the following Tuesday night. Dr. C. Walter Cole presided last night.

STUDY PAVING OF SAN PABLO IN ANNEX AREA

San Pablo avenue facing Richmond Annex is in El Cerrito, while the Annex is in Richmond. The 16 foot strip next on the westerly side of the avenue is unpaved, and the residents of the Annex want something done about it.

City Attorney T. M. Carlson reported to the city council last night that as a result of a conference with the El Cerrito officials, nothing definite had developed.

The city attorney stated the work could be done by either of the cities, but with the consent of the other.

He suggested that nothing be done until a petition from the property owners was presented to the councils of either Richmond or El Cerrito.

SAN PABLO WHITE WAY SEEN

San Pablo avenue as a great white way may become a reality according to the action of the city council of El Cerrito at its meeting last night. Mayor Ernest O'Brien appointed councilman Peter Larsen and City Engineer Ross L. Calfee as a committee to obtain estimates of the installation and maintenance cost of electroliners on the avenue.

Larsen and Calfee were also instructed to interview the city officials of Richmond in regard to lighting the west side of San Pablo where the property facing the street lies in Richmond.

The action taken was in response to a letter from Earl C. Corey, local business man, who stated that the cost of the electroliners would be small compared to the increase in property values.

Council Accepts Wharf Report

After an explanation by City Manager J. A. McVittie the expert report of W. L. Harris, concerning the Parr Terminal administration of the city wharves was accepted. The city manager also said that Harris in making his report had overlooked the adoption of these resolutions.

Typhoon Nears Flooded Japan

TOKIO, Sept. 10.—(UP)—Considerable alarm was aroused today by reports of a typhoon of increasing intensity moving in the direction of Fukagake.

An area along the northwest coast was flooded and many trees were blown down.

Some fear was felt for coastwise shipping in the north.

Ryan Granted Permit For Funeral Parlor

The city council, upon the recommendation of the city planning commission, last night granted to Charles W. Ryan a permit to erect an undertaking parlor on the northwest corner of Macdonald avenue and Thirty-fourth street.

No written protests were filed with the planning commission and owners of property at 3470 Macdonald avenue, across from the proposed site.

P. J. Drummond, interested in property at Macdonald avenue and Thirty-first street, entered a general objection to an undertaking parlor being erected on any lot on Macdonald avenue on the grounds that traffic would be tied up during funerals.

Ryan stated that the same traffic conditions now occur and would occur if funeral parlors were located at any site in town as the processions to the cemeteries must travel along main thoroughfares.

City Attorney Thomas M. Carlson, in making the motion that the planning commission endorse the application, stated that he could see no grounds that would prevent Ryan from securing a writ of mandamus by a court action, compelling the city to grant the permit.

Following the granting of the permit last night, Ryan stated that bids for the building, which will cost in the neighborhood of $15,000, will be let the latter part of this week with actual construction starting next week.

Long Walk To Mend Shattered Romance

"I would walk to the end of the world for you," are words that many a fellow has said to his girl, but it took Karl Hermann, 30, of Richmond to carry out the words literally.

Three months ago, Karl started out from Richmond, hitchhiking his way across the continent. His progress was closely watched by his brother, John Hermann, proprietor of a barbecue stand.

The hike ended Saturday, when Karl sailed for Germany from New York. He will be absent one year, during which time he will visit relatives in Germany, and hopes to return to Richmond with Charlotte as his bride.

$400,000 Cargo Of Gold, Silver Here

Greatest secrecy surrounded the unloading of a cargo of $400,000 in gold and silver bullion from the steamer Bintang of the Java-Pacific line at the Richmond outer harbor wharf Monday afternoon.

As the steamer docked here, armed guards from the Wells Fargo company and private detectives surrounded the wharves and superintended the loading of the silver and gold bricks into a coast motor truck. The valuable cargo was then taken to San Francisco to the Wells Fargo bank.

The cargo was loaded at a Dutch East Indies port. Only executive officers of the steamer line and the officers of the ship were aware of the value of the cargo. The Bintang will remain at the local wharf for several days, loading a cargo of oil and gasoline for the Orient.

The palm of the hand received the full charge from the shotgun, necessitating the amputation of three fingers and part of the hand. At the county hospital where he was taken, Dr. Edwin Marriethew, operating surgeon, expressed belief today that the balance of the hand would be saved.

LAURINA JASPER

Ladies First in Rejuvenation!

GIRLS, have you read about science's latest achievement—
Its new youth-preserver pills FOR MEN ONLY?
Yes, science is just as selfish as that!

Dr. Casimir Funk of Paris announced last week, before the International Physiological Congress at the Harvard Medical School, that he had discovered a new method of rejuvenation.

Simpler than any operation now applied—
In fact, involving no operation, but merely the preparation of a powerful extract in pill form.

Also, only men can be treated by this method!

Yet every woman knows that the preservation of youth isn't HALF as important for men as for women—
"After you," the youth-seeking male should remark gallantly to the female.

Or—in Sir Philip Sidney's famous phrase—"Thy need is greater than mine!"

Furthermore, every woman knows that women worry and work and sacrifice much more than men.

In order to stay young.

This old gentleman, Ponce de Leon, got grand publicity.

For his search for the fountain of youth.

But we shouldn't wonder a bit if Mrs. Ponce de Leon, whom he left at home.

Hunted youth more indefatigably than he—and more successfully.

Really, it's high time that the modern Mrs. Ponce de Leon took a little more against scientific research limiting rejuvenation to the male of the species!

Mrs. Ponce de Leon, struggling all by herself, does marvels at keeping young.

Just the other day, it was announced that French women spend $300,000,000 annually.

To stay youthful and beautiful.

That's only a drop in the bucket, compared to what American women spend for the same purpose.

It is Grandma, Mrs. Ruth D. Maurer has just founded the National Association of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists.

Who has made the beauty business the sixth industry in the United States—Grandma, trying to look as young as granddaughters!

And consider the risks Mrs. Ponce de Leon encounters in her quest for youth!

Health Commissioner Wynne says that for four years his department has been warning women.

To make hair dyes, lipsticks, skin preparations, weight reducers safe for would-be-youthful women.

Now it's all very well for men to look superior.

And for them to argue that Mrs. Ponce de Leon is following a mirage.

When she seeks the fountain of youth—
But women know that her quest is utterly understandable and justifiable.

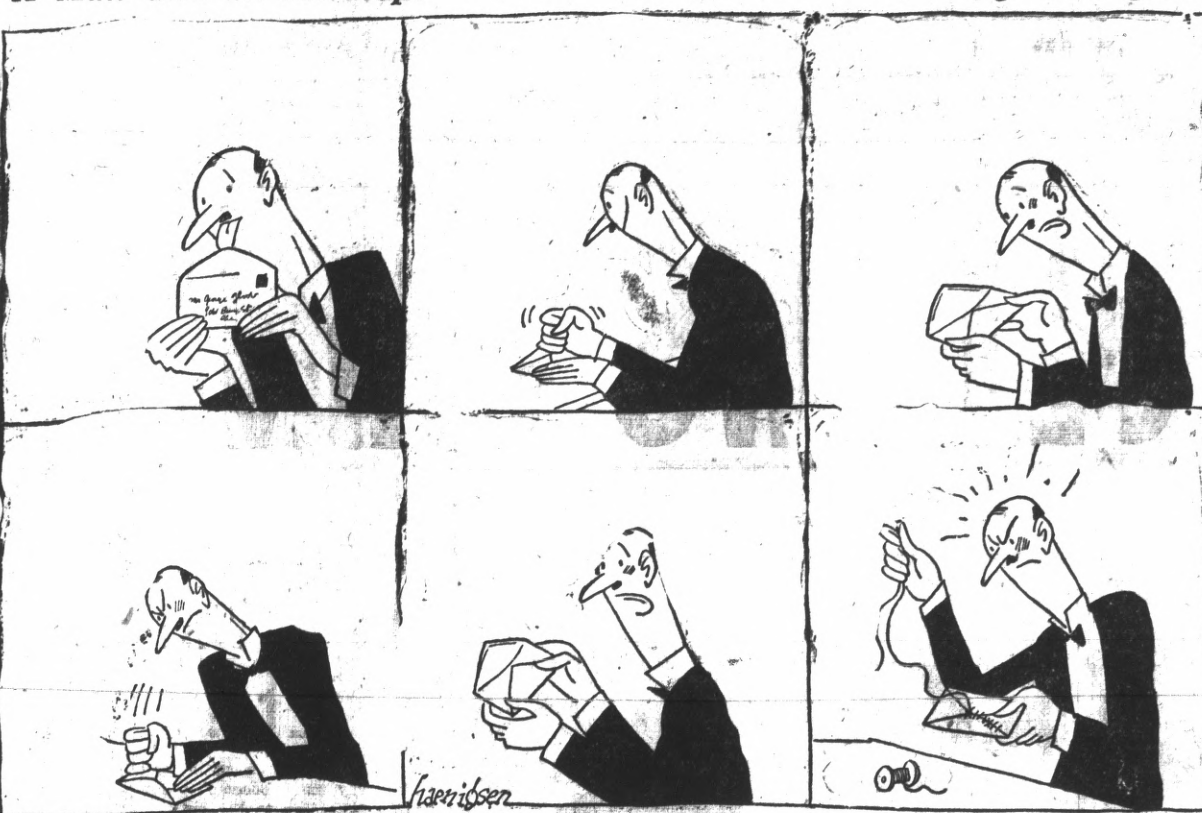

Because, always in love and now in business, feminine youth will be served.

And feminine maturity—to say nothing of old age—ignored.

Men want women to be young—
That's why women must want to be young!

Death of Silence

PARIS, August.

Once upon a time the Parisian Sunday afternoon was a restful and tranquil period, the most serene of the entire week. The city seemed in a drowsy mood, dreamy and entranced. Poets have sung of that hour in rhapsodic stanzas, Jules Laforgue and Verlaine. And now, those multitudinous faubourgs screech, scream and yell with all the fracas and din that the unimproved megaphoned gramophone is capable of. Every house seems to have one. Every apartment, in fact, boasts such a stenographic noise-maker. Walking through St. Antoine recently we were simply deafened by the noise. Strident trumpets blared out a military march. It was possible to distinguish a composition by Sousa, in spite of a blunt needle and a cracked disk. Then there were jazz tunes that had the effect of a few drops of lemon if you take the Viennese musical operetta for a more substantial dish. The saxophone wailed. Cymbals clashed in Arabic and Moroccan melodies. Rhythm and melody. The roofs joined in the crazy melody. The fearful voice of Al Jolson moaned of unrequited love. It was off by the gayest, whackingest revellers' ditty. Radio sets, home-made most of them in this section, joined in the infernal racket. "What a noise," I said to a somnolent peace guardian on the corner. "Que voulez-vous c'est l'invasion d'Amerique," he replied. (What do you want, it's the American invasion.)

Clochards

The English word for clochard might be hobo. Paris has tens of thousands of them. They are not out-of-work or social parasites. Simply free and easy ladies and gentlemen, who go their own way with a bottle of red wine and let the world drift by. The new prefect of police attempted to disperse them recently by having their main hang-out, the Grappe d'Or, a picturesque old hotel condemned by the sanitary authorities, but so far without success. The clochards have found a new centrum on evenings when the drizzle or the damp vapors from the Seine prevent them from sleeping under the bridges. This new place of congregation is located on the Rue Saint Jacques. The inhabitants of that street first raised a protest, but soon they accustomed themselves to the sight of the clochards, slinking homeward under the spattering gas-lamps. After all the clochard is a human being, perhaps unfortunates, who know? The Parisian is a sentimental creature. So he lets the clochards be. And then the clochards provide a certain measure of diversion. Take the couple, a man and a woman, both about seventy years old, who come staggering up the Rue Saint Jacques every night at ten. They are always drunk or at least mellow or "sooty" as Claude McKay called that twilight state in his "banjo." Before entering the hotel, the man recites poetry, and his declarations addressed to his Baucis are so tender, sentimental, and touching that the inhabitants who gather around get tears in their eyes. "Ah," they say, "such amour, such love, at such an age, that's quite close to marvelous."

(Copyright, 1929.)

The Next War

In an article published in a London newspaper on the occasion of the fifteenth anniversary of the beginning of the World War, Gen. Von Seeckt, former Minister of the Reichswehr, specializes on the technicalities of the next war. He maintains that success will be obtained only by a terrific initial offensive which will necessitate a highly mobile and perfectly trained army equipped with abundant supplies and munitions. He adds that the destructive power of modern weapons makes it necessary that the soldiers possess a high technical training and a morale developed to the greatest degree. He adds that these qualities can be developed only in a comparatively small army composed of professional soldiers. In other words small countries will be able to do as much as big ones. Numbers are not going to count any more. The General's article is useful. Nothing is gained by burying our heads in the sand and saying: Peace, peace! There are still more people working night and day on the idea that war is a possibility. One would think that Prussians more than any other had learned the lesson that war is futile and criminal. But as long as there are such people who like the Bourbons, never learn, now forget, anti-war propaganda must go on in one form or another. Every conference of statesmen is a h-pip. Every single individual who takes up his mind to refuse to prepare himself for the contingency of war means victory nearer. The slogan: "If you wish for peace, prepare yourself for war" is a fallacy. If you prepare breakfast, you are generally going to have it.

New Inventions

Buoyant suits to keep afloat firemen when they fall overboard as they fight waterfront fires are the idea of a California inventor.

Watertight goggles that can be worn under any kind of headgear by an Englishman, all spaces being provided between the lenses and their wearers' eyes.

Two New York men have invented a voting machine that is operated by electricity taken from a light socket as the hands of the machine are manipulated.

Equipped with an American automobile motor, a five-ton switching engine has been developed in France for use in railway yards or industrial plants.

Mitre boxes are not needed when a new guide is clamped to a saw to enable it to be used at desired angles.

For office of factory use a simple machine has been invented to the package with wire.

Electricity is used to fire a gun invented by an Austrian more quickly than by pulling a trigger.

Of French invention is a rock drill called that twilight state in his "banjo." Before entering the hotel, the man recites poetry, and his declarations addressed to his Baucis are so tender, sentimental, and touching that the inhabitants who gather around get tears in their eyes. "Ah," they say, "such amour, such love, at such an age, that's quite close to marvelous."

Apparatus invented in Germany to fight oil fires, pumps water through powdered soap to form flame smothering suds.

For temporary use an alloy was built recently on a Kansas farm from woven fence wire lined with roofing paper.

Textiles for clothing invented in England permit the beautiful ultraviolet rays of the sun to pass through to the skin of a wearer.

A ring magnet to encircle patients' faces to facilitate removal of splinters is held above the ground by a stake, can be folded and carried like a knapsack on a man's back.

A Word to Wise Parents

By Alice Judson Peale

GROWTH

WHEN first the children came to the country they clung to the porch and the swing.

A walk, even to the village, could be accomplished only by means of the bribe of an ice cream cone. Mother, who loved the woods and fields, was disappointed that her children should be so insensitive to the beauty of the country and so slow to avail themselves of opportunities to roam and explore. Apparently they cared nothing for the whole deep green countryside to which she had taken them for their summer holidays.

The children read and sewed and complained that there was nothing to do. For a month they were bored and longed for the boardwalk of a summer resort and a movie down the street.

Then slowly their attitude changed. The advent of a foot on a neighboring farm delighted them. They went wading in the brook.

When mother went into the garden to get the beans for dinner they offered to help. They begged Willy to let them drive the horses and were brimful of information on the treatment for ringworm in horses and milk fever in cows.

They took long walks into forgotten meadows back in the hills and brought home garlands of climbing, ripe blackberries. Before the summer was over they had learned to love the country as every child should love it.

We are likely to be impatient when our children do not at once respond to the opportunities we offer them. We forget that we must give them time to become adjusted to a strange situation, to find themselves and slowly grow into the realization of new satisfactions.

When your child seems slow to take advantage of some bright opportunity, sign of the impatient and feel that you have failed. Wait and give him time to grow.

The Beauty Shop

Moulding the Ankles

NOW that the bathing season is at its height and the modern young woman's fancy turns to thoughts of a presentable beach figure, the Beauty Shop is receiving numerous requests for quick ankle reducers.

There are ankles that are large because of excessive fat and there are ankles that are large because of a heavy bone structure. Next to nothing can be done about those latter, at least as far as the Beauty Shop is concerned. Correcting the former, however, is a comparatively simple matter.

For quick results, we advise a combination of hot Epsom salt foot baths and vigorous massage with one of the new strap reducing machines now in vogue. If you do not happen to have one of these contraptions in your home, visit a doctor or a gymnast who owns one.

And to further hasten the desired results, practice the following exercises night and morning and during every edge of a chair and twirl the feet, holding the legs still. Practice the exercise on one foot at a time, then both feet together. Keep it up for at least ten minutes at a time.

For variety's sake, try this one: Stand straight, the feet a comfortable distance apart from each other. Rise high on the toes, then sink back on the heels. Keep this one up for ten minute periods, night and morning and whenever else an opportunity presents itself. This latter exercise, by the way, is helpful in strengthening weakened arches.

A Change in Prunes

Did you ever try the combination of oranges and prunes for breakfast? Or the oranges into thin slices or dice them. Allow half an orange to three or four prunes, stewed just long enough to soften them and slightly sweetened. A little of the prune juice may be added and the mixture should be thoroughly chilled before being served.

One family like round slices of bread browned in fat and white not covered with whipped cream and served at once.

Household Inventions

Novel shears have only one handle, in line with one blade, a spring bearing against a plate extending from the other blade opening them after each stroke.

Two deep and several small nicks in its blade, according to its inventor, facilitate the work of a saw in slicing various kinds of fruits and vegetables.

A preparation has been invented that when applied with a paint brush to the under side of rugs, prevents them from slipping on polished floors.

Ice is made in ten-pound cylindrical cakes in a new electric machine for home use.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

I KNOW a young man who has always seemed to me to be working in a subordinate position. A few days ago he told me that he was making $100 on the side doing work for another concern than the one where I met him.

He wrote this so that you may examine yourself and see if there is not something you can do "on the side," not so much because it brings in more money, but because it will give you a good chance to EXPRESS YOURSELF more fully. All life is expression.

TELLING THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

AN open letter to middle-aged ladies who know all there is to know about bridge:

Listen, baby, I've run into altogether too many of you in the last few months. I don't mind playing with any woman who knows a lot about bridge. In fact I've found it quite an advantage. But I can't stand the kind that tells me what a sap I've been when each hand is over, how I failed to follow conventions, etc. There are only two kinds of women I hate in all this world and you're both of them.

Bridge is just a pastime with me. I play it for fun or not more than 1-20 of a cent a point. I make quite a few mistakes now and then, but I don't wish some peroxide blond giving a synopsis of them when the hand is played.

One would think you babies never pulled a bone in your lives. And I am going to show one of you up at the earliest possible moment—maybe not later than to-morrow night.

The next time one of you says, "Oh, Mr. Schmuller, if you had only returned my diamond," etc., etc., I am going to sit back and take it on the chin. And then I am coming back and I'll say: "What you have observed, Mrs. Bumpus, is undoubtedly all true. Now do you mind if I point out a few of your mistakes? In that first sentence of your interesting harangue on bridge mistakes, you split an infinitive. Right after that you tripped up by failing to use the subjunctive mood and before you had even played out your third sentence you had said, 'It don't,' and had used a double negative. Not that it makes any difference to me, Mrs. Bumpus, but this advice might help you the next time you open your face. And as long as one is going to speak the English language one might as well do it right."

I hope that will hold her for a while—but I know it won't.

It seems to me you babies that are such experts at bridge try to use it as

MODERNISTIC

During the season of native berries, fresh fruits and melons dessert-making becomes the least of the culinary artifice menu trouble. Pies, cobblers, short-cakes and roly polies appear on the table occasionally, but in the main fruits and berries as natural and chilled melon conclude luncheon and dinner.

Let the family tire of these natural desserts, some sort of pudding served hot with a soft or hard sauce once a week or even oftener is good management.

An old-fashioned chocolate pudding easy to make and steam lends itself to the summer diet. It is heartiest with nuts than without and richer with hard sauce than plain pudding sauce.

NANCY DORRIS

CHOCOLATE PUDDING (5)
One well rounded cup of flour
One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon
A pinch of salt
One cup of sugar
One heaping teaspoon baking powder
Three well beaten eggs
Three-fourths cup milk
Two squares unswartened chocolate
One-half cup chopped nuts, (optional)
One teaspoon vanilla
Scrumptious: one hour
The steaming of this pudding is quite simple. The pudding batter is poured into greased individual moulds and covered with oiled paper. These moulds are set in a pan containing a little water, covered and allowed to steam steadily but quietly one hour. The culinary equipment for making and steaming the pudding includes a mixing bowl, measuring cup, sifter, teaspoon, bowl, eggbeater, bowl for melting chocolate, saucepan, nut-cracker, knife, baking pan for steaming puddings, cover, oiled paper, clock, five well-greased individual moulds, spatula. Sift the flour, sugar, salt and baking powder into the mixing bowl. Break the chocolate into a bowl, set the bowl in the saucepan containing a little hot water and heat slowly until the chocolate melts. Crack the nuts and break or sub-coarsely. Beat the eggs in their bowl and stir in the milk, vanilla and the melted chocolate. Pour the egg-milk-chocolate-vanilla into the dry ingredients and beat well. Add the nuts and pour into the well-greased individual moulds or cups.

Set the moulds in the large baking pan and cover each one with an oiled paper cap, tying in place with a cord. Pour hot water in the pan to a depth of one-third the moulds; then cover the pan and set over a moderate flame. When the water boils reduce the heat and boil gently for one hour.

When the puddings are firm run a spatula around between mould and pudding and turn out in dessert dishes. Serve with a puff of hard sauce. One-half cup butter worked to a cream and combined slowly with one cup powdered sugar, a dash of nutmeg and a teaspoon of non-alcoholic cherry.

MRS. THOMAS HITCHCOCK JR. WEARS A CHIC TURBAN WITH HER FROCK

Extremely smart at the races yesterday was the type of turban favored by Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock Jr. It is of the small, swathed variety a trifle softer in contour than the cap of last season but just as soft and compact in style.

The piquant little hats were developed in black velvet, a fine weave of tricolette and even more.

Equally chic was the sleeveless necktie print frock worn by Mrs. Hitchcock. Also suggestive of the fall mode was the deep bertha which hung over the shoulders and simulated a three quarter sleeve effect.

A narrow belt defined the waist line and trimmed the skirt, which like the majority of autumn frocks was a trifle longer.

For accessories Mrs. Hitchcock chose a flexible jeweled bracelet, amusing little fabric bag, light silk stockings and dark pumps trimmed in light bows. The latter point is worthy of emphasis, for note a few of the fashionably gowned women wore these so trimmed slippers.

NEW TRIUMPH FOR TALKING FILM ART

A sensational achievement of the talking screen, the William Fox Movietone Follies of 1929, made its bow last night to an enthusiastic audience at the Fox-California theater, where it will remain for another day's run.

The first Follies ever attempted by the motion picture industry, Fox Movietone Follies, definitely established the fact that Broadway has plenty to worry about. This first challenge to the true type of stage revue proves the adaptability of the new screen medium for this kind of entertainment, hitherto confined almost exclusively to the larger cities because of the prohibitive expense of transporting a large company of players about the country.

This all-talking musical comedy rings, dances, talks, sings and laughs. It is everything that a stage musical revue is with the addition of the numerous advantages the motion picture enjoys over the stage.

The numbers are expertly and artistically staged; the principals are talented and youthful and the music is original and provocative.

There is a highly interesting story interwoven into the texture of the revue with expert hands which added greatly to the enjoyment of last night's audience.

With such a galaxy of talent and beauty, it is difficult to single out any particular numbers for especial praise, although "That's You Baby," "The Breakaway," "Walkin' With Surie," and "Pearl of O'd Japan" received the most applause.

Also on the bill is an all-talking comedy entitled "Waltzing Around" with Clark & McCullough and a Fox News.

Tomorrow Radio Stars in person—Brother Bob of KTAB and his famous Hawaiian band also style show, courtesy of J. C. Penney Co. and on the screen will be shown Wm. Fox picture "Not Quite Decent."

Cubs, Athletics Arrange World Series Plans

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—UP.—The World Series was the talk of the town tonight.

Spurred on by a meeting of baseball magnates today which virtually concerned that the Philadelphia Athletics will play the Chicago Cubs for the 1929 baseball championship, the fans enjoyed one of the greatest sport thrills Chicago ever has known.

Further impetus to the interest which has characterized the town for the past month was given today when Commissioner K. M. Landis set Oct. 8 as the opening date for the World Series. That baseball men regard the Cubs and Athletics as "in" was indicated by the fact that only the representatives of those two teams attended the meeting despite the fact that all clubs which yet have a mathematical possibility to win the pennant were invited to send delegates.

Landis decreed that the first two games will be played in the National League city, the next three in Philadelphia and the final two in needed in the National League city. That he regarded Chicago and Philadelphia as the two teams who will compete was indicated by the fact that he set aside two days for travel and left Sunday, Oct. 13 as an open date because Sunday baseball is not played in Pennsylvania.

In a whirlwind finish, Allison won five straight games in succession to put out the young Chicagoan.

Berkeley Bell, intercollegiate champion from the University of Texas, was the victim of another upset when he lost to Edward W. Feibleman, New York, ranked No. 32 nationally. Feibleman accounted for Bell 2-6, 6-1, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Bank Head In Swindle Taken

president of the Bank of Telluride, Telluride, Colo., tiny mountain village, turned into a fight today over whether $50,000 collateral involved would go to New York or to the hard working miners who make up the depositors in Telluride.

Tonight it began to look as if the Telluridians, survivors of a metal mining slump that has turned their home from a thriving city to a sleepy little mountain town, had won and that the $50,000 would be deposited in the Telluride bank to safeguard their savings.

The post office department at Washington late today issued an order that the money be turned over to Grant McPherson, Colorado bank examiner in charge of the Telluride institution.

Three Bouts Planned For Vallejo Card

VALLEJO, Sept. 10.—Three six-round main events have been lined up to entertain the bay region boxing fans here Thursday night. An outline of the main attractions show the following:

Billy Toth vs. Johnny Ramos. Mickey Gibbons vs. Tiger Charley Parks.

Lefty Shore vs. Duco Wyman. Two months ago Toth and Ramos staged a free slugging fight with honors even at the end of six rounds. At the final bell Toth was out on the floor but had carried enough margin during the previous rounds to warrant the referee calling the affair a draw.

It was sensational from start to finish and local fans are looking forward to another great battle.

The Gibbons-Parks fight looks like a natural. Gibbons is a slugging while Parks is a clever boxer. The Shore-Wyman affair should rival the top bout for action.

Casualties Heavy

The United Press correspondent at Manchuli reported that Russian attacks continued late last night, both Chinese and Soviet forces using field and machine guns. Casualties were believed to have been great.

The most severe fighting was near the 86th station of the Chinese Eastern railroad near Manchuli. The station is on the frontier where Soviet troops are alleged to have made a number of advances with armored cars and infantry.

Thirteen Soviet spies were arrested at Manchuli and will be executed at once of charges of plotting sabotage. It was alleged that they were instructed by the Soviet military leaders to create unrest in Manchuria.

"To Aid Reds"

Chinese sources here express belief that he attacks at Pogranichnaya and at Manchuli were designed to aid the efforts of Red agitators in China. They alleged that the agitators are attempting to widen the breach between the Chinese national government at Nanking and the Manchurian government here, thus creating a new disunion in China which they hope will make possible a coup by Chinese communists who have pledged themselves to co-operate with the Soviet.

It was reported that Chinese groups over a wide area are maintaining contact with Moscow in hope of overthrowing the present government.

The fact that both Russia and China, recently have moved large reinforcements to the frontier area makes the present flareup more dangerous than ever, it is believed.

The entire border line of 1800 miles presents a stage on which actual war may be forced if the border raids and fighting grow worse.

MOSCOW PRESS BELLIGERENT

MOSCOW, Sept. 10.—(UP)—The belief that "dangerous consequences" may result from the present fighting on the Manchurian border was indicated by the local press today when the latest Soviet note to China was published under belligerent headlines.

The situation undoubtedly has become worse in recent days and the newspaper Pravda declared that "evidently the Chinese have not lost the hope of outside help and therefore are provoking new complications."

The Soviet note, dispatched this morning, warned China that border attacks must cease or the Soviet will resort to military force.

Officials are showing great annoyance in regard to persistent reports that negotiations for settlement of the conflict have been started in Berlin and elsewhere. The reports are emphatically denied.

OUTSIDE POWERS BLAMED BY LEADER

LONDON, Sept. 11.—(UP)—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Riga tonight said that M. M. Litvinoff had addressed a meeting of officials at Moscow, telling them he was convinced that China's attitude in the present Manchurian crisis is based on the machinations of certain foreign powers.

Litvinoff, who is assistant peoples' commissar, alleged that these certain powers are desirous of entangling Russia in war in view of the increasing Soviet economic difficulties. The dispatch said, with a view even to overthrowing the present regime.

U. S. FORESTS CLOSED BY FIRES

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 10.—UP—Critical dry conditions caused C. M. Granger, district forester, to order national forests in Oregon and all but two in Washington closed to the public, effective Wednesday.

Travel will be permitted only on regular roads to permanent camps and resorts until a heavy, general rain relieves the forest fire menace, Granger said.

Smoke is so heavy over scattered areas of the Pacific northwest that lookout and airplane patrol work is ineffective. The condition is so menacing that Governor Patterson of Oregon already has ordered the opening of the deer season postponed from September 15 until general rains fall.

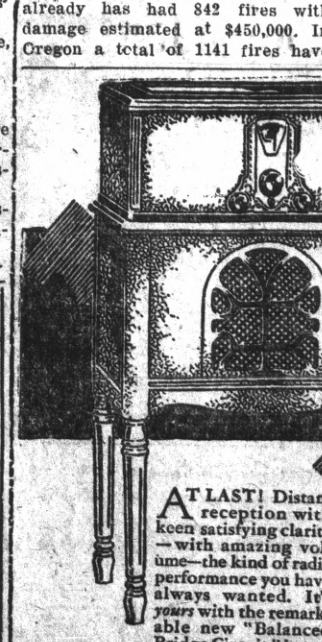

Fourteen national forests in Oregon and four in Washington are included in the order. Only the Mt. Baker and Snoqualmie National forests in Washington are excluded, due to their elevation.

A fresh fire was reported to have broken out in the Olympic National forest and swept over more than 4500 acres. Additional fire fighters were sent up from Seattle today to augment a crew of 165 men in the lines.

The Rimmel lake fire in Chehalis forest, Washington, was said to be giving trouble. Although the disastrous Dollar mountain fire in Colville forest in Washington is quiet, weather conditions continue dry and dangerous.

Wardens experience extreme difficulty in locating fires in southern Oregon due to heavy smoke clouds over the area.

Records show that Washington already has had 842 fires with damage estimated at $450,000. In Oregon a total of 1141 fires have been reported with a loss estimated at $80,000.

MRS. PANTAGES DRUNK, SAYS WITNESS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—UP—A state's witness testified today that in his opinion Mrs. Lois Pantages was under the influence of intoxicating liquor when she drove her automobile into what of Joe Rokumoto, for whose death she is on trial.

Under direct examination, Harry J. Ledebink, contractor, said that he had spoken to Mrs. Pantages, as well as observed her asserted zig-zag driving, just before the crash.

Previous to Ledebink's appearance on the stand, County Attorney Surgeon A. F. Wagner testified that he believed Rokumoto died from shock and injuries caused by the accident and not as the defense maintains, from an operation during which he succumbed.

Car Zig-Zagged

Ledebink said that his car was stationary, waiting for a traffic light to change. Mrs. Pantages' car passed on Beverly boulevard, "zig-zagging from one side of the street to another." When the light changed, he turned into Beverly in the direction she was going.

Ledebink testified that at a main intersection a few minutes later, Mrs. Pantages' car stalled tying up traffic, and he stepped to the street and offered to aid her. He said he offered to push the car to one side and call a taxicab for her.

Swore At Him

"I told her she was in no condition to drive," Ledebink testified. "She raised her head, and she had been bending forward, moving the foot throttle, and answered me with an oath."

"What did you say?" Deputy District Attorney James Costello inquired.

"I said 'thank you,'" Ledebink testified that he drove away, but had an opportunity to observe Mrs. Pantages again a few minutes later, this time at Sunset boulevard and Serrano street, the scene of the fatal crash.

Under Costello's guidance Ledebink said that he knew the smell of intoxicating liquors and had had the opportunity of observing people under their influence.

"Was Mrs. Pantages, in your opinion, under the influence of intoxicating liquor?" Costello asked.

"Yes sir," Ledebink answered. Max Steiner, defense counsel, then cross-examined Ledebink on technicalities of route and distance.

Crash Witness

The first actual witness to the crash was called by the state late in the day. Cyril B. Holmes, a machinist, said that after Mrs. Pantages had passed his automobile on the right he followed her at 30 miles an hour to get the license number of her car.

He said that Mrs. Pantages was driving recklessly and that at Serrano street, Rokumoto made an effort to avoid the crash, but too late. Holmes testified Mrs. Pantages made no effort to stop when the crash was imminent.

Dr. Wagner testified that he had assisted in an autopsy performed on Rokumoto.

A $125 to Bid Your Home of Moths May Save You Hundreds of Dollars.

MORTEMOTH KILLS MOTHS

The gas from Mortemoth crystals not only protects your furniture for a long time, but contact with it kills all moths, their eggs and their dangerous larvae in furniture which is already infested.

The proper method of using Mortemoth crystals is to tie them in small sacks, and to place these sacks down in the channel of the piece, as deeply as possible, behind the cushions, so that, upon expansion, the gas will spread and fill the spring units in the back and in the bottom of the piece.

When the sacks are empty, fill them again.
